DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. Claims 1-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rose et al (US 5,297,203) in view of Newman et al (US 5,705,940).

Consider claims 1,3-7,9-15, Rose teaches a wireless communication device comprising: an interface between the baseband control logic IC and the RF operation portions (Rose see especially fig 10), the wireless device having a standby mode (Rose col 25, lines 4-20). Note that when a wireless telephone is awaiting a call it is in standby mode. Rose lacks a teaching of the interface including data latches and level shifters to convert the voltage between the control section and the operation portions. Newman teaches an IC interface including data latches and level shifters to convert voltage between control and operation sections (Newman see especially col 4, lines 4-32, col 8, lines 49-68, col 11, lines 16-35). Newman teaches that this arrangement allows lower power dissipation and for the circuitry to be fabricated on a common substrate (Newman col 3, line 55 – col 4, line 3). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Rose to use the interface arrangement of Newman in order to provide lower power dissipation and for the circuitry to be fabricated on a common substrate.

As to claims 2,16,24, Rose in view of Newman lack a teaching of a second level shifter. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a level shifter for each component to be controlled.

As to claim 8,17,25, note that Rose's component includes a synthesizer (Rose, see especially fig 11, item 147, col 22, lines 48-64).

Art Unit: 2683

As to claims 18-23, the system of Rose in view of Newman would perform the claimed steps.

As to claims 26-33, Rose in view of Newman teaches everything claimed except for storing the method on a computer readable medium. Official Notice is taken that it is notoriously well known in the art to store methods on computer readable medium in order to allow for the methods to be easily updated and loaded on different systems. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Rose in view of Newman to store the method on computer readable media in order to allow the method to be easily updated and loaded on different systems.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 9-30-02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

It is noted that the applicant has not attempted to define the claimed standby over the normal understanding of standby in mobile telephones, namely that the phone is simply awaiting a call. There is no indication that if the cited references were combined as suggested, why the local level shifters would not perform as claimed. Note that the instant claims are not limited to the standby state being a lower level power saving state.

In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the motivation was found in the reference and recited in the above rejections.

Conclusion

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
